

Master in Historical Analysis of the Modern World

Description

The Master in Historical Analysis of the Modern World aims to train researchers, especially in the fields of Modern and Contemporary History, completing the training of the graduates that study in our universities so they can apply for university and non-university teaching jobs with more guarantees of success in Spain, Latin America and Europe. Thanks to its structure and contents, this Master also offers comprehensive preparation for journalists, political experts, sociologists, cultural managers, analysts, documentarists or librarians or archivists, among others, so that they can extend their skills and abilities in order to improve their employability. Thus, this Master offers specialised training in the field of Contemporary History, but is also of interest for other areas where a thorough knowledge of the problems of the modern world is required.

Access profile

Higher degree or degree in History (preferential), Humanities, Geography and History, Geography, Philosophy and Letters, Cultural Management, Political Science, Law, Economic Science, Work Science, Communication, etc.

Professional opportunities

Experts in History, cultural management, analysts and documentarists.

Address and contact details

Facultad de Filosofía y Letras

Avda. Gómez Ulla s/n, 11002 Cádiz

Tlf: (0034) 956 015 500

master.analishistorico@uca.es

<http://posgrado.uca.es/master/analishistorico> - <http://filosofia.uca.es>

Objective

Train professionals for historical research which, as it gives them analytical and heuristic capacity (in its double sense), allows an understanding of the complex social, political, economic and ideological problems that affect us nowadays and prepares them for a wide range of public and private tasks and trains specialists in complex project and organizational management. The Master is especially directed towards people with an intellectual interest in the social, political, economic and ideological processes of the modern world, with curiosity to understand the immediate past and a critical and analytical interpretation of the present, as well as being committed to processes for social integration, respect for multiculturality, environmental sustainability and the defence of human rights.

Direct access

Graduates with a higher degree or degree in History (preferential), Humanities, Geography and History, Geography, Philosophy and Letters, Cultural Management, Political Science, Law, Economic Science, Work Science, Communication.

Módulo obligatorio

METODOLOGÍA E HISTORIOGRAFÍA		POLÍTICA		ECONOMÍA Y SOCIEDAD
Materias	Créd.	Materias	Créd.	Materias	Créd.
Metodología histórica	6	Los debates sobre la construcción del Estado contemporáneo; nacionalismos, culturas e identidades	6	Viejos y nuevos movimientos sociales	6
		Culturas políticas y opinión pública	6	¿Cómo hemos llegado hasta aquí? Historia económica contemporánea	6
				Género e historia en el mundo contemporáneo	6

Módulos optativos (12 créditos)

TRANSICIONES Y DEMOCRACIA		CIUDADANÍA Y MEDIOAMBIENTE		CURSO MONOGRÁFICO PRESENCIAL
Materias	Créd.	Materias	Créd.	Materias	Créd.
Democracia y participación ciudadana en el mundo contemporáneo	6	Historia urbana contemporánea	6	Curso monográfico presencial	6
Políticas de memoria y transiciones a la democracia	6	Historia y medioambiente	6
		Los otros: marginados y excluidos	6

Módulo aplicación

Materias	Créd.
Trabajo Fin de Máster	12

Total Créditos: 60 (cada crédito equivale a 25 horas de trabajo del alumno).